"THE INFORMER"

April 9

Victor McLaglen
Heather Angel
Preston Foster

This Academy Award winning film tells the story of a great betrayal and its effect on a man.

It is the story of a strong man with a weak intellect who is dropped by the Irish Republic Army because he can perform no duties but physical ones. In order to get money, he betrays his friend to the Black and Tans and goes on a spree. Inexorably driven by a sense of his guilt he breaks down and is condemned to death by the I.R.A. He is shot and, though mortally wounded, crawls to the church where the mother of his betrayed friend is attending mass, confesses his guilt to her and begs for, and receives forgiveness.
